A.P.I.A. has appointed Rale Rasic as coach for the 1986 sea-son. After some weeks of negotia-tions and following Fil Bottalico's resignation, the former Soccero boss got the nod last Thursday night at a special Committee meeting. meeting.

APIA president Nick Papallo was delighted with the appointment.

"We've never been a club that makes rapid changes in search of success. We give an idea time to bear fruit and if the fruit is bad, then we change tack.

"He was, of course, one of the applicants, but shaded the other aspirants in the final countdown. We are happy to have acquired his services and hope that APIA will be closer to the top than it has been in the last few years.

"We also aim to appoint a fairly strong youth coach in order to have a good nursery.

The credentials of Zvonimir "Rale" Rasic speak for themselves.

He coached Footscray JUST, St George Budapest and the Australian National team up to 1974. He was most Then came a long period of reflection and bitterness. The departure of Les Scheinflug from the Australian national team as well as the youth team along with his long-standing friend Raul Blanco did not do much for Rasic's confidence in the game.

Whether Rasic will succeed at APIA remains to be seen but I have no doubt that he can teach most of the NSL coaches a thing or two.

MOVE THE WORLD CUP!

It would be immoral of Mexico to go ahead and stage the 1986 World Cup finals following the devastating earth-quakes of the past few days.

The millions it would cost to put on the finals should be used on emergency aid for the earthquake victims and to rebuild the flattened cities.

Conflicting reports from Europe claim that the World Cup will go ahead as scheduled in Mexico, and that they may be shifted to West Germany.

The quicker Zarko Odzakov is moved into midfield, the better chance Australia has of winning the Oceania qualifying group.

And the switch depends heavily on Alan Davidson.

It remains to be seen whether Davidson will be fit to play in the Ampol challenge match against China in Brisbane on Friday.

Friday.

He returned from Nottingham Forest convinced he had overcome a back injury that sidelined him for much of last season, but the pain returned, forcing him out of the squad that went to Auckland for last Saturday's match.

If he recovers, he will resume at right back on Fri-day, and Odzakov will move into midfield to replace prob-ably Joe Watson.

Coach Frank Arok said after Saturday's scoreless draw that's what he had in mind before Davidson was ruled out.

before Davidson was ruled out.

Mike Petersen will make a strong bid for a midfield position in later World Cup games if Davidson does not recover, and if Odzakov remains at right back.

the match: WYNTON RUFER (New Zealand)

could slot in at right back.

On the other hand, Ken Murphy and Joe Watson may improve sufficiently on Friday to make it hard for Arok to re-place one or the other. Both were well below par against New Zealand.

Whatever happens, Odzakov or Petersen would appear to be preferable to Watson in midfield.

Murphy hasn't had a really good game for quite some time but at his best, he is a deter-mined runner who covers well and is strong in the challenge.

China beat Australia 3-2 in Beijing with some sensational inter-passing last year.

The Chinese were generally faster than the Australians in that match, so perhaps Arok may retain Robbie Dunn in defence.

possibility, as coach Les Scheinflug has spoken with the Auburn-Uruguay star.

The player we referred to as Julio Estavillo since he arrived earlier this year is not Julio after all! His name is Vincente Salvador Estavillo and he is, as we wrote all season, one of the best players to come to Australia.

And he played for Penarol, Nacional and Olympiakos. But the 30-year-old Uruguayan star now wants to continue playing in Australia!

He started his career with Penarol as a youth and won a professional contract with the famous Uruguayan club in 1975. He was with Penarol for two seasons, playing alongaide such greats as Moreno, Olivera and Diogo before moving to Wanderers, also a First Division outtil.

And while he was happy to honor his commitment to the club, he feels he could play for at least another two years in higher competition.

What does he feel about the competition and the standard of play in the NSW State League?

"A lot of naive inexperienced players are involved in playing the game. It makes my job easier but I thrive on hard, strong competition and would like a chance to play in the NSU," Estavillo said at Marconi Stadium.

A KIWI VIEW

North Shore coach Don Jones says:

SOCCEROOS BORING!

REFEREE Keith Hackett bombed a fair goal by the All Whites in the crucial World Cup qualifying clash against Australia at Mount Smart Stadium.

There was no reason why he shouldn't have allowed Wynton Rufer's goal. Hackett reckons the ball was moving but there's no way I'll go along with that.

moving but there's no way I if go along with that. It was an abysmal decision. Overall, the ref had a fairly good game although I felt he could have brought out the yellow card a bit earlier to cut down the barging and he was also a bit inconsistent in this area. However, you couldn't say the same for the Ockers. If they produce a performance like that in the rematch in Sydney they will get the raspberry. They were boring.

It's really difficult trying to pick one-of their players that stood out.

It searly discuss the state of the same in the return match. I felt the Australians never showed their hand yesterday but they certainly won't be able to do the same in the return match. I think New Zealand coach Kevin Fallon will be happy with the 0-0 draw. I would be.

We drew 3-3 with Australia at Mount Smart in the last World Cup campaign and then beat the Aussies 2-0 in the return match on their home patch.

I feel we will play exactly the same over in Australia.

Midfielder Grant Turner was my man of the match. He may have been running out of steam near the end but he certainly took Oscar 'Crino out of the game. It was the quietest match I have seen from Crino.

All White defenders Malcolm Dunford and Ceri Evans played extremely well while I thought Shane Rufer's first time passes from the back were excellent.

But there must be question marks hanging over Steve Sumner and Declan Edge for the All Whites' next qualifying game against China-Taipei.

Edge only got into the game late in the second spell and I thought he could have been subbed earlier. In the first spell, I felt he should have really run at Zarko Odzakov with a full head of Sumner was still waiting to get into the game at the break and could have pushed out to the flanks on attack a bit more.

I thought Peter Henry (who came on as a sub in the dying min-utes) and Duncan Cole should have come on earlier.

Australian coach Frank Arok said he admired the All Whites' organisation. No wonder, the only organisation among the Aussies was that they had the numbers back for their defence. Charles Yankos must still be the slowest sweeper in tghe game while Joe Watson looked older than coach Arok.

Arok on verge of bringing on Patikas

Dunn replaced Steve O'-Connor who complained about a hamstring injury, during the second half in Auckland.

Arok has been admirably loyal to his players throughout the lead-up campaign and maintained that loyalty in resisting the temptation to make changes in the second half against New Zealand. "It was Important to retain the confidence of the players. After all, we were not losing, and any changes may have upset the rhythm and proved disastrous." Arok sald.

He conceded that from the disastrous. Arok sald.

He conceded that from the confidence of the players. After all, we were not losing, and any changes may just have resulted in victory, but he wasn't about to take the chance.

He had, however, contemplated bringing Jim Patikas into the team at right midfield, in place of Watson or Murphy, and relying on Patikas's ability to break through from deep positions.

He had not considered replacing one of the strikers. "Puting on a forward for a forward would have served no purpose," he said. "And Patikas needs space so he can run onto the ball. The New Zealand defence gave us no space at all. As sweeper, Alan Beath was always 10 or 15 metres behind, to cut everything off."

Arok was not happy with the thind, to cut everything off."

Arok was not happy with the thind, to cut everything off."

He repeated that he had aimed all along to a draw in Auckland and Tel Aviv, and to beat New Zealand and Israel at home.

He predicted that Israel would not be able to cope with either Australia or New Zea-

"Israel won't be capable of resisting the physical punishment. They will start doing silly things," he said.

"We were nervous and over-causious," he said after Satur-day's match. "We gave the ball away too much in midfield in the first half, but in the second half, we got our mid-fielders forward a lot more. "New Zealand tended to panic in the second half, when we got on up."

thic in the second half, when e got on top." He rated New Zealand as He rated New Zealand as highly as the side that qualified for the World Cup in 1981. Arok said the Socceroos had been unable to play their mermal game in the first half, because New Zealand was better than he had expected. "They are a very good unit, they chase everything, and they have some extraordinary solutions," he said. "I was also surprised by the quality of some of the players — Walker up front, Boath who surprised us as sweeper, and the two Rufar brothers who really are the strength of the team. "I was impressed. New Zealand plays typical third division English soccer." "This result keeps everything open to both teams, but if were the New Zealand coach, I wouldn't be happy at all." New Zealand coach Kevin Fallon, although ever-critical of Australla, copied Arok's formation exactly. Like Australla, the Kiwis played 14-3-2, rather than 4-4-2 as they hap dreviously. That rattled the Socceroos. And nerves were further frayed when O'Connor came close to scoring an own goal, with a lob over goalkeeper Terry Greedy in the first few minutes. What's more, New Zealand with a lob over goalkeeper Terry Greedy in the first few minutes.

What's more, New Zealand had a goal disallowed by English referee Keith Hackett — a decision over which the Kiwis still are fuming.

Quite frankly, New Zealand supported by a 14,000 crowd—the biggest at a soccer game in Auckland for a long time—looked more composed, more plooked more composed, more purposeful and less brittle than Australia.

Striker Wynton Rufer clearly was the man of the match, followed closely by his partner Colin Walker. Rufer is tremendously sharp and incentive. He plays first-time passes with flair and accuracy, and he is brilliant at flicking on the ball with his head. No-one on the field did as many extraordianry things as he did.

Indeed, the constructive play of Rufer and Walker up front was the biggest difference between the two sides, although David Mitchell battled hard in Australia's attack.

Shane Rufer, who had arrived with brother Rufer a few days earlier from Switzerland where they are contracted to FC Zurich, forced his way into the opening line-up at right back, ahead of Richard Mulliagn, while young left flanker Declan Edge was preferred canberral).

gan, while young left flanker Declan Edge was preferred to experiened Duncan Cule (excanberra).

Edge has ability, but he was unable to cope against the experienced Odzakov.

Similarly, midfielder Steve Sumner had an off day in midfield, but Grant Turner (ex-Hellas) played strongly against Oscar Crino, who shone only in patches.

Graham Jennings, the Australian left back, was hit hard a couple of times, and you could tell that he was suffering from butterflies. On a through ball from Kosmina, however, he did reach the byline but noone was in the middle when he cut it back in the 8th minute of play.

Australia's best moment came in the 18th minute. Beath, pursued by Mitchell, headed the ball out for a cor-ner, which was taken from the ner, which was taken from the left by Watson. Centre back Ceri Evans headed it clear, and it went to Odzakov who un-leashed a thunderous 39-metre drive which was deflected on its way. Goalkeeper Frank van Hattum flev in stinctively, got his fingertips to it, and the ball bounced onto the underside of the crossbar, down and out again.

But New Zealand replied with a promising attack within a minute, forcing Greedy to pounce at Walker's feet after Wynton Rufer had headed the ball on.

Crino played the ball into space, and Boath, in clearing it, clashed heavily with Mitchell, who was shown the yellow card—the only caution of the game.

A long, clearing header by O'Connor after a goal kick started an Australian attack soon afterwards. Mitchell was chasing the ball but so too was van Hattum who came out to the edge of the area and reached it just ahead of Mitchell.

Wynton Rufer showed his skill in getting tip-toe control of a dropping ball past the far post, and then slipping it inside to Turner who tried another square pass. Crino, however, had come storming back, and cleared the danger.

Then came New Zealand's disallowed goal.

Greedy stopped the ball with his hands, and then plcked it up. Referee Hackett ruled Greedy had had the ball under control the first time and therefore was not entitled to touch it again until someone else had played it. Walker placed the ball for a quick free

Hackett, a long way behind play, blew the whistle, and or-dered the kick to be retaken. He said afterwards the ball had not been stationary at let time Walker kicked it. Fallon said it was a lame excused and that Hacket "should have had more balls." A video replay proved Hackett wrong.

Just before half time, Rufer Just before half time, Kuter brilliantly nodded on a long free kick from Boath, and Walker stormed in to challenge for it, along with Greedy who copped a heavy knock and needed treatment as the teams went in for the break.

Rufer and Walker had been given too much room by the Australian stoppers in the first hall, so that needed to change if the Socceroos were to avoid defeat. Indeed, the defence did get tighter.

But in the 52nd minute, a short headed clearance by Odzakov went straight to Walker who blasted an angled shot which Greedy saved desperately at the near post.

Odzakov then went on a long, mazy run past New Zea-land defenders, all the way to the byline but no-one moved up to support him, and his cut-back was gathered in by van Hattum.

O'Connor was signalling to the bench to be replaced be-cause of a hamstring problem, and so Robbie Dunn came on for his first full international appearance. He and Odzakov ### were naturalised especially for the World Cup campaign.

Crino was becoming more and more prominent in the second half. He sent a fine through ball to Kosmina and Crino showed great skill in controlling the return pass, but Evans was on hand to stop Crino with a fine tackle.

Then Rufer darted away and, on an impossible angle, hit the bottom of the far post, with Walker failing to get onto the rebound. Some said Rufer had run the ball out of play before kicking it.

with five minutes to go, Kosmina played a through bad for Crino, running towards goal. Crino tried a lob over goalkeeper van Hattum but was unable to steady, as van Hattum rain too him as he took the shot, which sailed over the bar, van Hattum stayed down, requiring treatment.

Edge was injured in a clash with Yankos in the last minute, and replaced by Peter Henry.

Hard road ahead

Optimistic sounds from our camp notwithstanding, the Socceroos face a hard road to meet Scotland — let alone get to Mexico. The one point gained in Auckland was undoubtedly valuable, but the performance produced by both teams was far from impressive.

What was missing was the flair and explosive penetration of Marshall Soper but, of course, his antics quite rightly disqualified him from membership of the World Cup squad. Perhaps speedsters Jim Patitas and Frank Farina will get a chance to show their wares in the coming clashes. It does seen valid to remark here that modern trends in soccer notwithstanding, a good dose of orthodox wing-play might go a long way towards remedying obvious deficiencies in creating chances and capitalising on them.

TV BLUES

As so often before, SBS television was on hand in Auckland to allow Aussie fans to witness a major Socceroo occasion. It was not the multicultural network's fault that the mach falled to provide any sort of entertainment at all to spectame? Nor was it the SBS team's fault that the telecast itself—provided by New Zealand TV—falled to live up to its usual high technical standards It was rather pathetic to hear Les Murray's plaintive plea for occasional shots of Frank Arok, quite early in the game.

Camera angles, especially in the first half, were far from satisfactory and slow motion replays were not always available nor prompt enough. Maybe we are spoiled by the excellent coverage emanating from SBS teams and European networks on Channel 0/28.

Entertainment?

May I beg to differ with those who proclaim that somehow the pressure cooker atmosphere of World Cup elimination rounds automatically precludes the production of entertaining soccer?

Not true, my friends. Those of us who have seen some of the brilliantly entertaining displays in games such as Hungary v Austria and Bulgaria v France in Europe, as well as South American clashes, again courtesy of SBS-TV, know that boredom is not a necessary accompaniment to Cup soccer.

Too often the talents of our guys are underestimated and even discounted in an unwarranted manner. By the same token, it is doing our Socceroos a disservice to look for non-existent explanations when they produce a bad one.

SCHWAB: But you have nothing to do with the Rothmans national coaching scheme, do you? You haven't been on any courses here.

MARGARITIS: I know it's there for the good of soccer, and it's a good idea for coaches to get together like they did in Canberra. But people who want to be coaches shouldn't rely only on getting a certificate. I know a guy who works at GMH as a cleaner who's got the top.

SCHWAB: It's so often said that football has changed over the years, that we're not seeing the sort of skill we used to.

MARGARITIS: I cannot believe that players of 20 years ago were more skillful than those of today, because there are improvements in all areas of life every day. Mark Spitz broke all kinds of swimming records about 10 years ago, but now a schoolboy can break Spitz's records. In my day, we trained twice a week for two hours. Now we train eight hours a week. In my day, you were generally a one-fooded player up to 18 or 19. Today, you can watch a 10-year-old and wonder whether he's naturally right or left-footed.

SCHWAB: I'm not saying the skills are not there. I'm saying the spectators don't see the skill because of the way teams play.

MARGARITIS: I look at soccer as a business, and in Europe it's a successful business because people go to watch it in big numbers. If they didn't enjoy it, they wouldn't go. Ail I say is: I we are going to play this way, then at least let's play it well. I'm sure that if supporters learn more about the style, and learn about why we play this way, they will enjoy it more.

about way we play tims way, they will enjoy it more. SCHWAB: How do forwards overcome such depth in defence?

MARGARITIS: Football is not a five-minute game. You have 90 minutes in which to wait for the opposition to make mistakes, and then you punish them. You need patience and discipline, you need fitness to keep on going, and of course you need good players who can outsmart the opposition.

SCHWAB: I was thinking more in terms of outsmart the opposition.

SCHWAB: I was thinking more in terms of attacking from deep positions, through your midfielders, rather than relying on strikers who have to cope with the tight defence.

MARGARITIS: That's been one of Juventus's strengths. We've been able to come from behind because we have guys like Petersen, Wade, Miranda and Incantalupo. If you have good midfielders, they'll find chances to break through and score. You don't depend on your striker, but you have to have at least one because he plays without the ball and he gives depth and helps you create the triangle.

you an offer? Are you interested in joining them for next season?

MARGARITIS: I haven't even thought about Hellas. Jim Diamataris is a friend of mine. I see him all the time. First, I want to see what format the NSL will take next season, because the present format is no good, but I don't see any reason to leave Juventus. Why leave a champion team? I have had a few offers, I must admit, but there's no reason to leave Juventus, SCHWAB: Having mentioned the league format, do you think the standard of competition has been high enough this year?

MARCARITIS: Our division has been OK, but in the other division, there was a huge gap between teams like Foratia, Marconi and Hakoah, and the lowly teams like Penrith, Wollongong and Newcastle.

SCHWAB: Seeing that Juventus beat Hakoah twice in the national final, does it mean the top teams in the South were generally better than the top teams in the North?

marchartis: I wouldn't say that. You analyse the top players of Croatia, Marconi, Hakoah and Olympic, and you have to say that those teams are at least the equal of our top teams. Only form would make a difference at any given time.

SCHWAB: Why is it then, that Sydney players always seem to be preferred when it comes to selection of national teams?

MARGARITIS: The Sydney players in Frank Arok's squad were just lucky that they were there when Arok first took over and that they performed well and won games.

SCHWAB: But it's been going on for as long

SCHWAB: But It's been going on for as long as I can remember.

MARGARITIS: Well, maybe in the past, Sydney simply had better players. That's no longer the case. The Melbourne players are just as good. However, when Arok took over, the foundation of the team already was there, and he added a few, like Charlie Yankos, and they became winners. You don't change when you're winning. You stick with the players who are doing the job, and who cares where they come from? Anyway, we're not talking about rubbish. You can't deny that Kosmina is a top scorer, or Ratcliffe is a top defender, or Odzakov is a great midfielder.

SCHWAB: What sort of influence do you have on the national team? To what extent does Arok heed your advice about tactics, for example?

MARGARITIS: I think I've helped Frank quite a bit. We were playing in Melbourne against Red Star, after having lost 1-4 in Adelaide. I thought that instead of getting our forwards to start pressurising inside the box, we should drop back, defend in numbers and play on the break. I thought that if we lost again, it would be very difficult to motivate the players for their World Cup games. You can only build confidence if you're winning. I give Frank all the advice I think is of use. What he accepts and what he rejects is up to him, but I have committed myself to the job, and I always fulfill my obligations.

long, that defence and counter-attack would best describe your style.

MARGARITIS: No team in the world fails to drop back when it loses possession. Some teams recover well and win the ball back quickly. We are one of those teams that does it well. If you can get your players to accept from you the need for having to win the ball quickly, then you are succeding in an important part of your coaching duty. Of course, I also make moves according to the opposition. That is simply observation. You need your eyes, your senses, your judgement, for that You can't learn it at seminars or at schools. Also, as a coach, you must be willing to take risks.

SCHWAB: Like moving Joe Sweeney to full back, Paul Wade to centre forward and Mike Petersen from sweeper to midfield in the Southern Division grand final against Make-

MARGARITIS: Well, it worked. Some risks, though, aren't really risks. If I see the opposition is presenting me with a player whose got a broken leg or a broken brain, then I have to take advantage.

SCHWAB: You mentioned seminars, schools. Do you keep up with overseas trends?

Schools. Do you keep up with overseas trems? MARGARTIS: I've gone to Europe loss of times to talk to other coaches, to visit clubs, to observe what is going on. Coaches over there put in more time, the soccer is better, they get more money than we do. If I don't go and learn from them, who do I learn from? Coaches here in Melbourne? On recent visits, I went to Dundee United, I went to Holland, Greece, I spent time with Chelsea and Queen's Park, I attended semi-

SCHWAB: What are the differences between the Hellas team you coached in the NSL, and your present Juventus team?

MARGARITIS: Well, you couldn't ask Steve Woodin to do what Robbie Culien does. Wooddin was a natural forward, who wasn't any good at coming back. Culien can come back and defend as well. Andrew Zinni can act as striker, but he's also tremedously fast and he can give you width. Alun Evans couldn't do ther.

he can give you width Alun Evans couldn't do that.

Our midfield is better than Hellas's was then, although Hellas finished second in a much strunger competition. However, at Hellas we had experienced players and we didn't have in worry about working on dis-cipline and boosting confidence. At Juventus it's taken a bit of time to convince our players that they are good enough to do it.

SCHWAB: Can this team win another tle, or do you need a few reinforcements?

MARGARITIS Yes, we can win another one Why not? They're young, there's room for more improvement, as long as they know their limitations. However, they can succeed only through bard work because every game will be a battle from now on. As for reinforcements, if I had to play tomorrow against anyone at all, and I had a Boniek on the bench, I'd still use my own players until one of them showed me they couldn't cope any more. What we do need is a Charlie Egan, who will score goals even if you played him at full back.

SCHWAB: If you do recruit, will you look overseas?

MARGARITIS: Maybe, but first Juventus has to secure its present players, its team manager, its coach, its committee. When everyone is happy, we can go from there.

SCHWAB: PVE HEARD West Adelaide Hellas, among others, is keen to sign a couple of your players...

MARGARITIS. Some players might want to go, to Adelaide for the fishing, but not for the soccer.

SCHWAB: Juventus is preparing for a trip to Italy, as reward for having won the national championship. You had been planning a match there against Ju-ventus of Turin. Has it been arranged yet?

MARGARITIS: We've been waiting for a date on which Juventus of Turin can play against us. We also want one other date, and when they've been confirmed, off we go. It will be of great value to Juventus — both be players and the administrators — because we will be able to study the way things are done over there. We are going for the soccer, not for the spaghetti, In two weeks there we will be able to attend 20 or 30 training sessions, we will have a bus, and we will travel all over the place. During the day we will work hard, we will be well-organised. During the night, we will have fun. I might stay on for a few weeks after the team leaves for home, so I can go to Greece for a while.

SCHWAB: First, you'll have to play in the Dockerty Cup. I believe you're not too happy with having another com-petition so late in the year. MARGARITIS: No. I don't like the idea, but if we have to play, then we play.

SCHWAB: You're a renowned fisherman. What else do you do for relaxation?

MARGARITIS: Yeah, I'm looking for a good island with plenty of fish around it. Otherwise, meeting friends over a glass of beer will do me.

SCHWAB: Is it your ambition to be national coach one day?

MARGARITIS: It would be an offer I could not refuse.

SCHWAB: What is the secret of the Socceroos' success?

MARGARITIS: Frank Arok has a lot to do with it. His formation, his leadership. There is terrific understanding among the players. The boys realise there is good money in . It was the many the second of the second many in the second many in the second many in the second many the SCHWAB: What happens if the Socceroos fail in the Oceania qualifying series?

MARGARITIS: If you lose, you lose. If you are hit by a truck, then you are hit by a truck. There are no guarantees in this business.

SCHWAB: Which players have most

SCHWAB: Which players have most impressed you this year?

MARGARITIS. Charlie Egan, for his finishing. He only scores from inside the box, but that is enough for any coach. Gary McDowell impressed me with his aggression, his hard work. Robbie Dunn is a good player, with great heading ability. Sean Lane has superior running ability, he shields the ball well, he has good left-foot skills. Steve Smith also is a very good player. Jeff Olver is a great goalkeeper and without him, Heidelberg would be in trouble, Vlatko Belic is big and strong and a good runner, who gives 90 minutes of effort. Steve Gojevic had trouble with his ankle but he's a complete player, and I like Josip Biskic for his skills. Oscar Crino had some good games.

striker Doug Brown, 26, will be transfer-listed when the transfer season reopens in December.

Brown (pictured) was top scorer in the NSL in 1983 and 1984.

Previously he played for Sheffield United in England and Aberdeen and Clydebank in Scotland.

World Cup aim for Lane

SASO TRAJCEVSKI

In his first two years with Preston Makedonia, Sean Sean Lane has built up an impressive reputation as a dashing for-ward. At times he has shown touches of brilliance and put in match winning per-formances, espe-cially in the Buffalo Gold Cup.

"When I first arrived here, I was a bit overweight and slightly unfit. During preseason training I regained my finess and lost the weight. I started playing with aggression and more effort and things have gone right for me," Lane said.

Makedonia's set-up, according to Lane, is terrific. "The lads and the whole team are great. They have treated me well. I think the team has basically a very good nucleus of players, notably in defence and the forward line. The mid-field programme of the petro."

Lane has ambitions of playing for Australia in the next World Cup campaign, having made his debut in the B team against China on Monday. "I came to Australia for a bit of sunshine, and my permanent residency is coming through soon so I would like to play in the next World Cup, but looking at the present, I'm happy with Makedonia."

e Roberto Vieri (left) scores for Juventus against Milan goalkeeper Curdiccini at the Stadio Communale in Torino, with Schnellinger of Milan unable to help. Schnellinger of Milan unable to help.

Vier's next stop was Bologna and then came the offer from Australia!

Bologna insisted on 100 million lire ($100,000), a far cry from the sum which saw Vieri move from Sampdoria to Juventus, but still it shattered Marconi's hopes of having Vieri in its ranks.

Frank Labbozetta, the man who instigated the move to get Vieri to Marconi, continued to negotiate with Bologna and in the end managed to get his services at great cost to himself but almost NOTHING TO MARCONI!

How would, you like a World Cup player at your club for "nix"?

Please do not contact "Marconi Travel." The agency does it for only one club and the agency's patron, Frank Labbozetta, does it for the love of the game. The years that followed saw Marconi draw crowds of up to 12,000 spectators—an indication of the pleasing style preferred by spectators and the motivation provided by Roberto Vieri.

Herrera his boss

I'd hate to forget a stint Vieri had with Metro Creatia in Canada before be arrived in Australia. Metro beat Cosmos, which featured the great Pele, by 2-4 and both goals were scored by Vieri! Age, the curse that threatens us all, decided the issue as far as his playing days were concerned.

Still celebrated in his native Italy, he has however fallen in love with his adopted country and intends to continue giving his best to footbale. He started a new conclining career at Inter-Monaro, then moved back to Sydney to take over Marconi's under 19 side.

He picked up Marconi's youngsters when they were second-last half-way through the championship but by the end, they missed the semis by only the smallest of margins.

One cannot go overboard about his coaching ability at least not yet—but I would like all to examine his record before I say my next piece.

Vieri has no peers in Australia when it comes to football credentials.

Aust. vs Israel

Roberto Vieri is back at Marconi and that's good news for all at one of our best clubs. Marconi's hierarchy has appointed Vieri as assistant to coach Les Scheinflug and as under 19

Coach for next season.

A former Italian international whose playing career spanned more than 20 years, Vieri gave so much to football fans in his native Italy and more recently Australia.

For all those sentimental, football-loving fans there is no greater thrill than having a legendary figure in their midst.

But to the knockers (who grow quicker than grass) Vieri remains "an enigna" and will be treated as such until he proves himself.

Before I go back to that argument, let me intro-duce Roberto Vieri.

The time is now ripe for all and sundry to see that we have made an awful mess of things with our youth. So many talented kids have been wasted through the insistance on the physical over the mental, the rugged over the skilful.

Our national youth team, so successful and pleasant to watch in the past, looked awful during the World Youth Cup in the USSR and not much better in most of the qualifying games in Australia.

The essence at any sporting fixture is entertainment and our latest batch of boys, either by selection or by accident, just did not make it.

Blanco's unexpected departure. According to one proMelitin member, Blanco failed to lodge an application to coach the club in 1986!

What?

In fact the same person claims that it is in Melita's construction that applications will be sought at the end of every season for the following competition year?

Surely this practice is outmoded.

There are some coaches who already have applied for quite a few coaching positions at other clubs. But there are a number of coaches who refuse to be part of this bizzare bartering scene. One of them is Blanco, who realised that he was not wanted at Melita, and moved on.

And what a good move that was.

He was given a free reign at Canterbury and decided to go for his own braind of football—the South American style.

Everyone loves to win but Blanco pledged a lot of goals and a lot of entertainment first and foremost. And after some early season hiccups he moved into top gear. Sutherland was

In seven rounds only five points were collected and hopes of the Premiership, of even a top four position, at this stage looked hopeless.

tion and with Basterfield back after a spell the side had more strength. The next, I6 rounds saw Canterbury win 13 games and fraw three to win the Premiership by a point from Fairy Meadow. Despite the loss of Basterfield and Dounis halfway through the competition, Canterbury never looked back. Is exciting front runners, including two Brazilians, were just too much for their foes. Marcos Silva and Nello Borges, the lads who grew up together, went to school together and shared the same jerseys at America of Brazil, looked a cabove the rest. With their abundance of skill they tauned their opponents to create many scoring chances. Kirwan, with his aggressive style, was just the foil the other two needed.

Antignostopoulos acted as both a destroyer and an attacking midfielder.

At the back, there was no stopping Canterbury with John Radman fitting in perfectly next to Eddie Pena, with Karapricos and Hantzis the no-nonsense full backs. Goalkeeper Chris Hummell, the former Canberra and Australian youth star, was the main the Berries needed most. He was easily the best keeper in State League this year.

Round 8 saw the Berries defeat Bankstown 2-0 with Anagnostopoulos clanching a late winner.

Melita was trounced 3-0 (Dounis 2, Kirwant), and Warringah Narrabeen was wiped out 7-0 with Borges and Silva playing their best soccer to date. Borges scored a hat-trick while Silva and Kirwan added two each. Then came a 2-0 win against Subonia with Kirwan and Hantzis scoring, the latter from the penalty spot.

Avala was beaten 2-0 at Knights Park and the Brazilian connection, Silva and Borges, scored.

Uruguny was beaten only 1-0 (Anagnostopoulos), then followed a 0-0 draw against Fairy Meadow before another 1-0 win, this time against Manly Warringah courtesy of a late penalty by Hantzis. Then followed a 2-1 win against Ku-Ring-Gai (Borges and Kirwan), 0-0 against Ilinden, then a storming run home:

Here are the men who have carried Canterbury to the threshold of NSL inclusion:

CHRIS HUMMELL (Goalkeeper): The most recent under 21 award winner in NSW, Hummell is certainly not a newcomer to good soccer. He must be ranked among the best in his side. Safe on the line, quick to come out and cover and most vocal in his instructions to fellow players, Hummell was a major cog in this well-oiled Canterbury machine.

ANGELO ANGELIS (Goalkeeper): Only 17 years old, this youngster is very highly rated by his coach Raul Blanco, but with Hummell in goal, Angelo had little chance to see action. Nevertheless, he did well in the second grade side.

JOHN KARASPIROS (Fullback): Earlier this season, Karaspiros was on the verge of leaving Canterbury. A volatile fullback and player who likes to do his own thing, he found Blanco a little too firm at the start. However, once Karaspiros settled down, he was eager to contribute. His own worst enemy in the past, Karaspiros was able to control his temper and his game has improved greatly. An attacking fullback he is at home on both sides of the park and also can be used in a central defensive position.

EDUARDO PENA (Sweeper): Out of the "big smoke" for about two years, he took time to settle and was jittery at first. Once Radman joined him, Pena was more at ease and able to

JIMMY BASTERFIELD (Midfielder):
Having worked so hard to get into top shape after missing a couple of seasons, Basterfield suddenly decided to hang up his boots halfway never-say-die attitude. Basterfield was a great loss to Canterbury. "Had he played with an NSL

NELIO BORGES (Forward):Canterbury's most entertaining player. Nicknamed "Pele" by his team mates, Borges displays all the qualities that grace the Brazilian soccer stage. His speed, silky touches and enormous ability to create chances out of nothing are rare qualities. It beats me how Eddie Thomson could have rated this man just a reserve grade player at Hakoah! It is this kind of player that will bring people back to the terraces. Borges was his side's top scorer for the year with 10 goals.

PAUL KIRWAN (Forward): After disappointments at Blacktown and Croatia, Kirwan finally nested at Canterbury. And he proved most capable. With nine goals to his name he was Canterbury's second top scorer, but more importantly, his aggressive attitude complemented the silky style of the Brazilian and Chilean players. Kirwan is an explosive type who loves to attack defenders.

LOUIS DOUNIS (Forward): Played in the first 10 matches and scored seven goals before moving to APIA. Had he stayed with Canterbury he would have certainly topped the goalscoring charts in State League.

GEORGE KALOGERAS, CON EFTIMIADES, ZELJKO MIOKOVIC and GLEN LAWS also played this season and all are part of Canterbury's plans for next season.

Mind you Taylor had been booked in the first half, but I felt his sending off was extremely harsh.

Unsung, unwanted, and with apologies to the Oxford dictionary, uncoa-ched, Corio arrived at Ross Reserve like a crowd of lepers and walked away like a troupe of soccer superheroes even though it lost.

This was the day that the mouse almost roared once more, for make no mistake about it, Corio so easily could have bundled Springvale out of the 1985 Richo Dockerty Cup. In the end it failed, thanks to the cruel hand dealt by rules which enforce a penalty showdown in the event of a draw after extra time.

"It was a crime that they

"It was a crime that they (Corio) lost. They were very unfortunate and it's a sad way to go out," said Springvale coach Bobby McLachlan.

Everything was agains."
Everything was agains. Torio from the outset. It just had had an ordinary season in Third Division. It was playing a State League side. It had lost its coach, Ernie Goiser, seven days earlier. He quit after Corio's 2.3 loss to Port Melbourne. Central defender Joe Malesic was in charge on a caretaker basis.
But cup folklore abounds with tales of the underdog reaching uncharted heights. Corio players knew this. They played upon it in their ferssing room before the kick-off, talking about how Sunderland knocked off the then mighty Leeds United in the English. F.A. Cup final in the 1970s.
They then ran onto the American Commitment to fight without a care in the world and with a commitment to fight without a care in the world and with a commitment to light until they dropped. And fight they did.

Springvaie created one clear-cut chance in the entire contest and it came in the 25th minute when Jim Nelson burst clear. Corio goalkeeper Sean Howe charged off his limited by the simple task of Jobbying. Nelson decided to drive the ball instead and after Howe made a superb parry, Paul Reardon slammed the ball clear.

Corio's defence, in partic-tular, was magnificent. Care-taker coach Malesic, stopper Reardon, right back George Van der Chys and left back Billy Carruthers were just about impassable. Goalkeeper Howe typified the growing confidence in Corio as the second half unfolded when he charged out of his area, dribb-led past an opponent then sent a long ball downfield for his forwards to chase.

Yet Neil Garvey could have seved Corio the pain of the pounced on a rare Carruthers' blemish. It came in the 80th minute when Carruthers failed to clear effectively. The blar can to Garvey who hurried his shot, sending it wide of the near post from 12 metres.

Garvey converted his penalty attempt. Rod Van der Chysreturned the gesture. Keith Adams scoroed from the spot then Carruthers, after an elaborate shimmy, shot wide. Humble, Opperman, Bannon and Breneizeris all scored and Nelson was next, knowing that a successful penalty here would bundle Corio out of the cup. Nelson made no mistake. As usual, just one team sang its heart out in the dressing rooms after the match. Unsually, the singers were the men of the losing team.

East Brunswick adde the scalp of Yallourn to its haul as it continued its amazing Ricoh Dockerty Cup run. The other scalps hanging in East Brunswick's lair are those of Nunawading City, Coburg and Knox City.

Yallourn, after a season in which it proved itself one of the better clubs in Third Division, went into this clash without four of its regulars.

Garolin.

Gavin Paine, who had been sidelined for three weeks with a shoulder injury incurred against Essendon Triestina, was called into the Yallourn squad 24 hours before this clash. Paine trialled with Norwich City in England last year and has received an invitation to return and he'll be doing so within a month.

East Brunswick had the better first half chances and deservedly led 1-9 at the interval.

There was no stopping Stef Bazzani in the 29th minute. Yallourn falled to clear follow-ing a free kick from the right and Bazzani planted the ball in the far corner with a firm, low drive from six metres.

After the interval, Leckey pushed up into midfield but Yallourn failed to effectively penetrate the superb East Brunswick defence, and when a superb header by Patsakos made it 2-0 in the 70th minute, Yallourn didn't have a hope in hell.

Bazzani bagged his second to complete the scoreline. Just four minutes remained when good pressure by substitute Michael Eyar dispossessed a Yallourn defender, The ball ran to Bazzani who slotted it past the advancing Rodriguez and into the far corner.

Suburbs opened the scoring in the 16th minute when Keiron Coyle headed home Steve Kakantonis' cross at the far post.

Just on half time, Darren Tuck was released through the middle by Stenson. Tuck rounded Stuart Robbins but the keeper brought him down, diving at his feet. Bobby McGuinness converted the re-sultant penalty to give suburbs a 2-0 lead.

In the 52nd minute, Zoumas sent off Steve Gadsby for al-leged abusive language. There was no disputing the decision as such. Anybody within ear-shot could hear the uncompli-mentary remarks directed at Zoumas. There was, however, a lot of controversy with regard to the identity of the culprit. The Doveton players and officials were adamant that the wrong player got his marching orders, but even if Gadsby was the innocent victim of somebody elses in-discretion, Doveton's numer-ical disadvantage did not last long.

long minute later, Steve Ka-kantonis, the recipient of a yellow card in the first balf, not be a fair of the step of the balancing the ledger. In the 57th minute, Nick Apostolidis fumbled the ball and Dave Nelson nipped in to pull a goal back from close range.

Four minutes later, Doveton equalised through Paul Priestley who jumped high to head home Jim Spink's cross from the right. Suburbs piled on the pressure in the last 20 minutes and clinched victory through goals by Coyle, who pounced on the rebound from a McGuinness shot; substitute John Conditis who had an easy tap in following good work by McGuinness again, Darren Tuck, who was put through by Conditis; and finally McGuinness who beat Robbins with a powerful shot on the run.

It was a see-sawing affair during the first half with Melita taking an advantage through those two quick goals.

Canterbury's defence, especially John Karaspires, took too long to decide what to do with the ball and eventually had to concede a corner. Ray Farrugia placed it to the near post for Walker to head past Chris Hummell.

Springyale should have been beaten by Third Division club Corio last weekend but forget about that result when trying to weigh up the outcome of Sunday's game against Gully. The Vales have shown their ability against top State-League sides in the second half of the season and like nothing better than a tight. the well-offed Croydon machine.

A word about Fawkner's young goalkeeper Corrado Nobile He has a lot of talent, but the occasion proved to be just a bit too much for him. No doubt with experience he will be more decisive, but in this game he did not control the spall area and was easily in-timidated. Regular stopper Frank MacLeod was sacked before the game and told find another club and no doubt this unsettled the Fawkner team.

Krncevic hero in Belgium; AEK beats Real

Eddie Krncevic — the big striker who was to have played for Australia in the World Cup — maintained his outstanding form with Cercle Brugge in Belgium by scoring the winning goal against Dynamo Dresden of East Germany in the Cup Winners' Cup last week.

Cup last week.

Goals by Jef van Thournhout in the 25th and Andry Raes in the 27th minutes gave Cercle Brugge a 2-0 lead, but Dynamo Dresden fought back to equalise through Andrew Trautmann (54th) and Ulf Kirsten (75th)

Then, with nine minutes to go, Krncevic notched the winner to the delight of the 6000 Belgian fans.

Krncevic has been running second in a league best player award, only three points behind Vandenberghe of Anderlecht. He inspired a 3-2 victory over Anderlecht recently, setting up all three goals and being voted man of the match and being voted man of the match with the complex of the design for the game.

Every support of the dressing room was talking about Krncevic's enormous performence and that he handled everything hat was thrown at him. He outplayed Pertuzovic, the Yugoslav international and in the dying minutes showed what a real professional he is by holding the ball up and to booting it out and wasting time like some of the other players during the game. Krncevic is an example of the true professional.

Musemic and Bosko Djurovski over-came their disappointment at having lost their series against the Soceroos when they scored to give Red Star a 2-8 victory over Aarau of Switzerland in the Cup Win-ners' Cup.

Ziatko Vujovic was the top score of the round, notching four in Hajduk Spit's 5-1 victory over Metz of France in the UEFA Cup.

West German clubs fared badly— Cologne drew 0-0 at home with Gijon, Hamburg lost 0-2 away to Sparta Rotter-dam and Moenchen-gladbach drew 1-1 at home with Lech Poznan.

Bayern Munich, however, managed a 2-1 away victory against Gornik Zabrze in Chorzow in the European Cup, with goals by Roland Wonlfarth and Dieter Hoeness. European champion Juventus shrugged off its customary Italian caution in Luxembourg with a dazzling flve-goal first round first leg display against Jeunesse d'Esch.

Childhood dreams are blown away

Nothing shatters quite so tragically as old childhood dreams. Such as those held about the 'magic' of Hungarian soccer.

SOCCET.

A recent visit there, away from what I often consider to be the "crude, dull, physical" Australian game, was a sobering experience.

There I saw in the new Ferencyaros stadium wondering for 90 minutes what on earth made their famous B Centre (a sort of Budapest Kop) so enthusiastic and happy.

Ferencyaros, conce considered what I uvenus or Bayern are mow on the Continent, battled away against lowly Csepel, in front of 20,000 fans.

But the 'battle' was little more than a sub-standard clash between two teams which have clearly forgotten the skills of their ancestors and have not yet acquired the physical qualities of today's gladiators.

Foor Ferencyaros, the team of the physical qualities of their ancestors and have not yet acquired the physical qualities of today's gladiators.

Foor Ferencyaros, the team of the promastic love for almost half a century, could hardly stitch together three moves in 90 minutes which would please a true fan.

In the end they managed a squeaky 1-0 win, with an own true fan.

In the end they managed a squeaky 1-0 win, with an own goal — and their young supporters left deliriously happy.

As I have often said before, in modern soccer only a win — in modern soccer only a win — any win — counts.

I watched, first with hope and later with sinking heart how some of the celebrated young lions of Ferencurros failed to remind me of my youthful heroes, the Lazars, Poligars, Sarosis, Koranyis and Gyetvais of the late 30s and early 40s.

Flayers like Banki, Zsinka, Fischer, Kusstra, Straist and others are so painfully ordinary that they would not make Frank Arok's national team. Of course, much the same applied to their opponents — Ceppel—buthat was to be expected; they are running last and are widely lipped to be re-legated.

Andrew Dettre

While it's true that Ferenc-varos has no current Hun-garian national squad players, purely on its display I hold fears for Hungary's results in Ferhaps the Honved, Video-ton and Gyor "stars" are mar-ginally better than those of Fe-Ference and Gyor "stars" are mar-ginally better than those fe-ference and the margin will be enough to create a team of strength and class. Several well-travelled Hun-garian colleagues share my pessimism. Some told me in Budapest pessimism.

Some told me in Budapest that during the qualification period Hungary had played really well only once, in Vienna, when it won 3-0. The rest of its displays were mediocre.

While in Hungary I met two old soccer friends. Florian Albert, the Eu-ropean Player of the Year in 1867, rated as the best player since the Puskas-Team of the 1860s, is now in charge of the Ferencyaros jumiors and yourn sides, some 14 teams and ther coaches.

Genoa, Italy for many decades now, in recent years in retirement.

While he was visiting Budapest, his close friend and former team-mate Geza Toldi died there.

Sarosi didn't attend the funeral. "I couldn't," he said to me softly, a sad, tired, sold mould have broken down."

It would be lovely to report that Dr Sarosi looks well, fit and healthy — but he doesn't; he is gaunt, very thin with sunken eyes and suffers from some hip problem that makes him walk with a decided limp.

He asked about his old friend, Julius (Drum!) Polgar, who lives in Sydney.

"Drumi was put up by my club, Ferencyaros from Kistelek," Sarosi recalled.

"The three Sarosi brothers, laci, Bela and myself and Drumi lived like a family.

"I have still not seen many players with his impeccable kicking technique."
